

Take a Child to Work initiative

THE South African Police Service (SAPS) will tomorrow participate in the Take a Child to Work initiative as part of the Youth Crime Strategy which seeks to empower and support young people.

This is aimed at helping young people become self-sufficient and more involved in crime-fighting initiatives.

"The SAPS' Take a Child to Work Day will include girls and boys, under the theme Dream, Believe, Achieve," SAPS said in a statement.

"This year the initiative will focus on curbing the violation of women's rights as it is an acute problem in South Africa," it said.

"Education will form an integral part of the initiative." - Afro Voice Reporter
